Effective Grading Practices – March 24, 2009

The Leadership and Learning Center team will share new research on Effective Grading Practices, demonstrating how changes in grading policies will help your entire school by reducing failures and disciplinary problems while increasing faculty morale and student engagement. Through a combination of interactive learning exercises, personal reflections, teamwork, and whole group activities, participants will leave this seminar equipped to make immediate changes in grading practices.

Classroom educators and school administrators will want to attend this results-based Institute!
